

Today's Quotation
If, of all words of tongue and pen,
The saddest are, "It might have been,"
More sad are these, we daily see:
"It is, but hadn't ought to be!"
—Bret Harte

The Star's position on repressive legislation, particularly prohibition, is well known. Making one law to guard personal property and another law to destroy personal rights simply because they aren't fortified by property always has seemed to us to be the big lie in American democracy.

Furthermore, the history of statutory prohibition is that it begins with propaganda that is untrue and winds up with a law that has no effect whatever on the problem it proposes to solve — alcoholism.

The overwhelming majority of the American people are opposed to prohibition. They aren't necessarily friendly to the liquor traffic. They simply recognize the fact that when stripped of propaganda the liquor problem is one to be treated by social and medical research — not by stupid penal enactments.

We laugh today at the story-book character whose answer for every bothersome person was "Off with his head!" We know there's no blanket answer for most of the world's ills — and the least of all answers is a law.

I have in today's mail a worthwhile statement on the liquor problem. It's from a great insurance company, the Metropolitan Life. Read it and you'll understand this newspaper's position —

New York, N. Y. — Mortality from alcoholism in the industrial population has declined by 85 per cent over the past 40 years, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians report. Deaths from acute and chronic alcoholism averaged 6.3 per 100,000 of the company's industrial policyholders in the period 1911-1917, and 0.9 per 100,000 in 1950.

The alcoholism death rate in the insured group fell sharply in the years just prior to the Prohibition Amendment, reached its lowest point of 0.7 per 100,000 in 1920, the first year the Amendment was in effect, and then moved upward to a second, but lower, peak of 4.9 per 100,000 in 1926. From that point, through the years, a downward trend of the death rate has been maintained.

The experience for the United States population as a whole parallels that of the policyholder group, the statisticians note. They point out, however, that the present relatively low mortality is by no means an index of alcoholism as a public health problem which still causes this country an economic loss of almost a billion dollars a year.

"Even more important than the economic waste is the human waste and misery, the breakup of homes and families, the illness and disability, and the industrial and traffic accidents caused by excessive drinking," the statisticians aver. "It is estimated that the use of alcohol is a more or less serious problem in the lives of about 4,000,000 Americans, and that, of these, about 750,000 are true alcoholics — people who feel compelled to drink so excessively as to seriously harm their physical and mental health."

The problem is now being attacked constructively, according to the statisticians, with state and municipal health departments, as well as hospitals establishing facilities in increasing numbers for the study and treatment of alcoholism.

The National Committee on Alcoholism, it is pointed out, has committees in many cities operating alcoholism information centers; the National Research Council is guiding research on the probable causes of alcohol addiction; practical aid to many is provided by such organizations as Alcoholics Anonymous; and many welfare and religious agencies and business and industrial organizations are supporting and encouraging the development of programs for the scientific study and control of alcoholism.

"Although much is being done," the statisticians comment, "a great deal of additional intensive and coordinated effort is still needed to restore large numbers of men and women to useful lives, and to keep others from becoming excessive drinkers."

Final Tornado and Red Cross Funds Report

Hempstead county's Tornado Relief Fund campaign closed with a total of $1,563.41, and the regular Red Cross Roll Call reached a total of $3,530.76, according to the final reports on donations to both funds published today.

Although both lists belong to the Red Cross the donations were handled separately, since the regular Red Cross drive was already under way when the March 21 tornadoes struck at Dierks and tore a path of destruction across the north central part of the state killing more than 140 persons.

The Tornado Relief Fund was set up as a second disaster drive, being handled by Citizens National bank, First National bank, Hope Star and Radio Station XXAR. Both the Tornado and Red Cross lists were transcribed for publication.

Two Die, Eight Missing in Ship Collision

Wilmington, Del., May 26 (AP) — A tanker loaded with crude oil and a gasoline-laden barge collided in a driving rain on the Delaware River 15 miles south of here last night, both exploding into flames that sent crewmen diving into the water.

Two men are reported dead, six missing and one injured crewman is at Wilmington General Hospital suffering from shock.

An oil tanker and a gasoline-laden barge burst into flames after colliding in the rain-swift Delaware river 15 miles south of here last night. One man is known dead and eight are missing.

The vessels were identified by the Coast Guard as the 10-441-ton tanker Michael, with a cargo of crude oil, and the motor barge R. D. Dodge.

Searing, gasoline-fed flames swept the badly smashed Dodge, which carried a crew of nine. She was reported split in two with the stern section sinking. The Michael, Continued on Page Two

Heavy Vote in Italy, Pact Bloc Strong

Rome, May 26 (AP) — A bigger than-expected first-day vote turnout gave Italy's Atlantic Pact government bloc a strong chance today to beat both Communist and neo-Fascists for control of Rome and Naples.

There are the major prizes in two-day local elections in 2,400 towns in Central and Southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia. The voting ends today.

First results were not expected to be known until tonight.

In the poverty-ridden South, it was still expected to be a hard and sometimes losing battle for Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democrats.

There the government bloc is up against strongholds of landless and unemployed and the rising strength of a new Monarchist and neo-Fascist alliance.

When police and Army guards closed booths last night after the first day's voting, it was estimated that 72 per cent of 12,105,784 registered voters has cast ballots in the thrir of Italy voting.

In Sicily, where the voting lasted only one day, unofficial final tabulations showed a turnout of 82.99 per cent — 2,072,300 — of the registered voters.

Darnell Ruled Legal Judge at Hot Springs

Little Rock, May 26 (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today held that Lloyd E. Darnell legally holds the office of Hot Springs municipal judge against the claim of former Judge Fred D. Johnson.

Among other contentions of Johnson, the court rejected an assertion that Darnell was "ineligible to run for the office in November, 1950, when he was elected, because his term as a Garland County representative had not expired at that time."

The Supreme Court ruling affirmed a holding of Arkansas circuit Judge C. Floyd Muff, Jr.

Johnson was elected municipal judge for a 4-year term on April 5, 1949. The 1949 Legislature changed the time for municipal elections, previously held in the spring, to coincide with other general elections in November. Darnell and Johnson were opponents in the November, 1950, election. Johnson entered under protest and contending his term still had two years to go. Darnell won, and Johnson filed suit to vacate the election and have himself declared judge.

Finds the Only Thing Wrong With America Is Too Much Emphasis Placed on Success

By HAL BOYLE
New York, May 26 (AP) — You probably never heard of Joseph Kolodny but if you are the average consumer, he knows a lot about your buying habits.

Kolodny came here from Poland at the age of 17 unable to speak a word of English and with $7.50 in his pockets. He got a $2.50 a week job as an errand boy and was in such a hurry to get educated that he attended two high schools simultaneously.

After breezing through college, he took a post with a tobacco firm and six years later bought out the place.

Today Kolodny, now 49, is known as "Mr. Tobacco" in America's fourth largest industry. He spends his mornings running his own multi-million dollar concern. He spends his afternoons acting as managing director of the National Association of Tobacco Distributors, whose members gross five billion dollars annually selling some 5,000 items from snuff to cigars and pocket combs to 1,300,000 retail outlets.

Joe also has organized some 2,000,000 American tobacco growers (naturally he's president), makes 150 speeches a year, and spends his spare time horseback riding and trying to get the government to cut down the cigarette tax.

His busy brain is crowded with odd statistics about consumers. "The average man," he said, "buys 25 razor blades a year, 180 sticks of chewing gum, and 18 pounds of candy. He strikes 3,280 matches."

"There is at least one smoker in 85 per cent of American homes today. A man smokes seven-and-a-half packs of cigarettes a week, a woman five."

President Hits Private Power Companies

Washington, May 26 (AP) — President Truman lashed out at the private utilities today, asserting that they are spending millions in a drive to "frighten, threaten and confuse the people" about public power.

In a fiery speech to a Conference of Electric Consumers, the President accused the utilities of spending vast sums on propaganda and advertising.

He said "the power monopolies" are taking part in a "Barrage of propaganda."

Truman got a standing ovation from the adherents of public power, rural electrification and electric co-operatives when he told the group:

"I am the only person who represents the whole 155 million consumers."

"In their pull — I'm their lobbyist."

And, he went on:

"Some time soon, when the whistle-stop campaign starts I am going out and give you all the facts about this power situation."

cigarettes more than men do.

"Contrary to popular belief, more pipes are smoked in dam-Yankee territory than below the Mason-Dixon line. The South does lead in snuff. The U. S. Senate keeps two well-filled snuff boxes — one for Democrats, one for Republicans."

Kolodny spends little on tobacco. He smokes about a pack of cigarettes a day, but usually borrows them. His favorite brand is "O.R." — other peoples'.

One of Kolodny's biggest innovations in the industry is "rescue squads" of experts he dispatches to help any member distributing firm which meets hard sledding. They analyze the problem, recommend a solution.

"Most Business failures are caused by one of three things — lack of capital, lack of know-how or family trouble," he said. "Most often we find it is family trouble — personality conflicts."

"Women often are the cause. One of our member firms, owned by two brothers, almost went on the rocks because the wife of one brother showed up at a family New Year's Eve party wearing a new mink coat."

"The only way we could solve that one was to get her husband out of the firm."

This one-time poverty-stricken immigrant boy has had a Horatio Alger rise to wealth, but he doesn't like to be compared to a Horatio Alger hero.

"The margin between failure and success is very narrow," Kolodny said. "This is a great country. Anybody with a little energy, initiative and honesty of purpose can make money in this land."

"But the only thing I have ever found wrong with America is that

Steel Ruling Awaited, Truman Plans New Steps

Washington, May 26 (AP) — President Truman today was reported considering a new move to toss the tangled steel controversy into the lap of Congress if his seizure of the industry is ruled illegal.

The Supreme Court's decision in the historic case may be handed down today.

The nine justices gather for a regular opinion session but there was no way of telling beforehand whether they were ready to announce their decision in the case. They will have another opinion day next Monday, the last scheduled before the court's summer recess.

Philip Murray's CIO steelworkers have expressed impatience at not getting a pay raise since their contracts expired last Jan. 1, and the union has plainly indicated it will launch a new industry-wide strike if government operation of the mills is ended by the high court.

Says U. S. Is Behind Russia in Airplanes

Washington, May 26 (AP) — John D. Small, chairman of the Munitions Board, told Congress today "we are still far behind" Russia in current warplane production, particularly of jet aircraft.

He said that even so planned deliveries in 1953 and early 1954 will have to be cut back if congress sticks to a House-approved ceiling of a 46 billion dollars on armed forces spending in the fiscal year starting next July 1.

And those years, Small added, appear to be "a very perilous period as we look ahead."

Small testified before the Senate Preparedness Committee. It was one of two Senate groups which were inquiring, simultaneously into the air power situation. A Senate Appropriations Subcommittee had Secretary of the Air Force Finletter before it behind closed doors.

The Preparedness Committee's hearing also was closed to the public but Small sent newsmen a copy of a prepared statement he read to the group.

Court Sets Boundary Line in Mississippi

Little Rock, May 26 (AP) — The Supreme Court affirmed Mississippi Circuit Court (Chickasawba district) in its determination of a boundary line between two residential lots in Blytheville. The lower court upheld the contention of T. L. and Ada Lewis as to location of the line. Addie B. Houchins, loser in the suit, appealed.

Hugh W. McDaniel of Greene County is sole owner of all his late mother's property under terms of her will, the Supreme Court held.

The opinion reversed Greene Chancery Court, which had ruled that McDaniel held the property, which includes some 40 acres of real estate, as trustee for himself and three other children of Mrs. Vina McDaniel.

Mrs. McDaniel, 73, left a will directing that all property go to Hugh and that none go to the other three children. The Supreme Court said there was no showing that Mrs. McDaniel intended any of the property to go to the other children.

The Supreme Court refused to prohibit Union Circuit Judge Tom Martin from proceeding further in a damage suit growing out of the death of F. McCord in a traffic collision on Aug. 30, 1950. Harris Distributors, Inc., a defendant in an action brought by the widow and children of McCord, sought the writ of prohibition. The Harris company contended that the liability of McCord was not settled in another case, neither the lower court nor the Supreme Court concurred in this view.

September Bloody in Kojé Prison Riots

Kojé Island, Korea, May 26 (AP) — Informal sources said today Communist and anti-Red prisoners of war battled each other for control of barred wire POW enclosures for five riotous days in what Kojé veterans call "bloody September."

The five day struggle — not yet officially announced — caused 100 POW casualties, including 15 killed by prisoners. United Nations guards wounded 14 with gunfire and 22 with bayonets, quelling the riots.

Bloody September was concentrated from Sept. 16 to the night of the 20th. Veterans say savage fighting erupted inside the compounds for control of the prisoners.

The Chancellor hailed the pact as a work which "help preserve the peace and freedom of the whole world" but completed tomorrow in Paris. We sign the European Defense Community treaty.

"The completed work will secure peace and freedom for Germany," he continued. "And here today Germans also 'link' their fates with the East. Soviet zone."

He said the pact would "despatch a message to the world that the first step toward the unification of all Germany in peace and freedom."

Western Union Strike Ends Officially

Washington, May 26 (AP) — The 52-day Western Union strike ended today and workers flocked back to telegraph offices across the nation.

Union and company officials expected the flow of messages to return to normal quickly.

The official end of the strike came at 12:01 a. m. local time, after the AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union announced that its Western Union membership had voted 8,695 to 5,488 to accept a strike settlement.

Pay raises or reduction of work-hours provided for under the ratified agreement are dependent on government permission for Western Union to raise its rates.

Union officials said they understood the company may ask the Federal Communications Commission for rate hikes of 10 per cent. Western Union officials have not said how much of a boost in rates they need to meet the proposed pay increases.

Russian Press Renews Attack on Peace Pact

Moscow, May 26 (AP) — The Soviet press renewed its attacks today on the Western Big Three's peace contract with West Germany in the wake of a new Soviet note demanding four power talks on an all-German peace treaty.

Pravda said at this "historical turning point" for the Germans they are inspired to struggle against the "fatal anti-national policy of the West German government of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, which is trying to transform the Germans into cannon fodder for American imperialism."

The Russian note, broadcast over Moscow radio and delivered yesterday to the embassies of the United States, Britain and France, accused the Western Nations of trying to delay action on a final settlement with a unified Germany.

The Soviets said further diplomatic exchanges would only impede a settlement. They renewed their original proposal for immediate direct talks.

The Russians were replying to Allied notes of May 15, in which the Western nations said they were willing to have four-power discussions, but only if the Soviets agreed first to conditions insuring free all-German elections.

Ozark Senior to Tour East

Ozark, May 26 (AP)—During the next 18 days, 32 members of the Ozark High School graduating class will complete a tour that was two years in the making.

They boarded two school buses today, bound for Washington, New York, Canada — and an informal talk from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

The members of the group have been working for two years at odd jobs to raise money for the trip. They have saved over $2,400 and each student stuck away an extra $30—just to be sure he doesn't run short of cash.

The graduates will stop at Arlington, Va., Washington, New York City for a chat with Mrs. Roosevelt, St. Catherine's Ontario, Dearborn, Mich., Indianapolis, St. Louis and back home.

The school principal, Bently F. Stracener, said it would be the first trip outside Arkansas for many of the students.

Ozark is located in the western section of the state, on the Arkansas river.

Mrs. Jack Wilson directed the guests to the dining room where Mrs. LaRoy Cameron, Miss Sue Gilbert, Mrs. Emory Thompson, and Mrs. D. E. Goodlett alternated at the tea table serving punch and individual cakes.

A pale pink rose, Mrs. Hollis Luck also extended courtesies. The tea table was covered with a cut work cloth and an arrangement of two three tiered epergne candelabras holding tall pink tapers, flanked by individual epergnes with single candles. The bowls of the epergnes were filled with pink sweet peas and queen anne's lace. A large arrangement of roses and queen anne's lace was placed on the buffet.

All houseparty members were presented corsages of sweet peas tied with pastel color ribbons.

Approximately seventy-five guests called during the appointed hours.

DOROTHY DIX Office Amorist

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a college graduate married to a fine woman whom I love very much. We have two children. I have a good position with a nice income.

Being in an office with men and women, it is necessary for me to come in contact with a certain young woman with whom I have been working. She has the most beautiful laugh I've ever seen. For the past six months it is apparent that she has come to mean more to me than just a co-worker. I look forward to going to work as I can see her. At an office party I kissed her and the world turned upside down. She, too, is married and very much in love with her husband. She has noticed my glances toward her, and although she hasn't said anything I believe her feelings are the same as mine. At times I believe I am in love with her.

Giving up the job and asking for a transfer is not the answer, but I am curious to see what your reaction will be. I took me four years to get the position I have, and I couldn't see giving it up.

BOB B.

Answer: And I'm curious, Bob, to know just why you wrote to me. You surely don't want advice, and I'm sure you know what the reaction of any right-thinking person would be toward your situation.

Your letter, which I have somewhat abridged, is positively beautiful over this case, and which certainly does make you not the beautiful brown-eyed lady any one could.

I do regret changing your job would not be a solution. In the next job it would be a blue-eyed babe.

Grow up. You want to college, were in the service, and have been working quite a while. So obviously you're not quite as juvenile as you sound. Why not decide to grow up? Keep your mind on that job you worked so hard to get, or you may lose it.

Has it occurred to you that the young lady's reaction to your attentions may be nothing but a desire to please an office superior? You may be taking a lot for granted by assuming that she, too, has wandering affections.

You ask whether I think a psychiatrist would help you. Only to the extent that you are simply dying for a chance to get off some tall prating about your romance and if you care to pay the price, it might help to tell all. It might also convince you that you really are being a little silly. Your field of interest is naturally rather limited.

Why not face facts squarely, Bob? You have been blessed with everything to make your life perfect. A good wife, pleasant home, fine children, lucrative position—what more could you ask for?

Dear Miss Dix: I am a very nervous person, and I've noticed through the past few months every thing upsets me. I have been writing to a nice serviceman and have always anxiously awaited his mail. Now I seem to be developing an inferiority complex and am afraid I'm not suitable for him. He is getting quite serious and, although I like him, I don't think it fair to encourage him while I'm in this condition.

Answer: First of all, you need a good, thorough medical check-up. There is probably a physical cause for your extreme nervousness and by carefully following the doctors' advice, you can clear up quite a bit of it. The rest is up to you alone. Since this boy has always been friendly, there's no reason for you to feel inferior because of him. Stop worrying and accept his friendship as it is offered. I would not encourage his serious intentions however until he is home and you have a chance to become better acquainted. You can easily change the tempo of his letters with a little penner.

Dear Miss Dix: Although we've only been married four months, my husband seems to be losing his affection already. I am very affectionate and also very sensitive. He likes to read in the evening, and I think that he should pay more attention to me.

MARCIA M. Answer: I have long ago discovered that "very sensitive people" are also usually naggers; you're probably haunting the poor man to the point where he has to seek refuge in a book. Keep up your present tactics and the book will no longer suffice. His refuge will be outside the house, and it won't be too easy to lure him back!

Harrison, May 26 (AP)—Jack Holt, a candidate for Democratic nomination for governor of Arkansas, says Gov. McMath is "Too busy to set up a political machine to run his office."

Holt's comments were made in a speech in a hometown celebration in his honor at Harrison, Ark., Saturday night. Gov. McMath, also a candidate, is seeking a third term in office.

He said school teachers would be taken care of, the Highway Department would be taken out of politics, and "our old folks will not be forgotten."
